A New Building for the Young Men of Ottawa

Metcalfe Street Corner of Laurier Avenue

His Excellency, the Earl of Aberdeen, Viceroy of Ireland, said: "The Young Men's Christian Association is one of the most comprehensive organizations and agencies in existence. It affords a place of resort, rest and recreation for young men, especially in great cities. Such an institution is of great usefulness from the standpoint of the welfare of the community, and leading men in business might well look upon the ministrations and opportunities afforded by the Young Men's Christian Association as something they might well support and encourage, if only from a business point of view."

Mr. James K. Eckels, Ex-Controller of United States Currency, said:

"The appeal which the Young Men's Christian Association from time to time makes to business men is not to be regarded as an appeal for charity. It is, instead, the asking of an expenditure, on the part of those to whom the request it addressed, as legitimate to the futherance of their business enterprises as that which is incurred for the police or fire insurance or any other lay-out which has regard for the protection and preservation of their property interests. It is essentially legitimate, and yields as much in return as the very money paid to the employee himself. In short, it is a sum which ought to be set apart each year as an improvement and betterment fund, and the man who fails to give heed to the call of the Association, after once being made acquainted with its merits, makes so grave an error as to reflect upon the soundness of his business judgment."
